Many, leading astronomers believed adark planet had collided with Beta Ceti, causing the latter to burn with Professor Frost, who saw the "new" star, and Professor Russell of Princeton, think it may have passed through a nebula and caused particles to full upon its surface and blaze up for a brief while.

All the leading scientists agreed there was no danger to the earth in the present situation but Professor Sturat of Princeton pointed out that if the sun passed through a nebula similar to that which Bets seems to have encountered there would be a flaring up which would wither life on the earth instantly,

It was a good show as minstrels ko and the strand was packed. The charcoal boys didn't ought, or anything like that, but they discovered that as long as they let their lines border on the edge of the risque that the audience was going to hesitate before it chuckled. It thought first and laughed later. That's why many of the old gags didn't "get over" quite as well as the minstrel men expected.

Roy Francis as the "Dancing Dance" and Fred Miller as the "Eccentric Acrobat" in dance numbers near the end of the show brought down the house. Smoke Gray as "Billy Put" in the

THE RED BEAR

Five hundred thousand Russians will die from hunger and disease caused by under-nourishment, this year, before the 1923 erops are harvested.

We get this in a letter from William Garner, former American newspaperman, now connected with the American redef organization in Russia.

Five hundred thousand may seem like a big figure, and it is. But in the autumn of 1921 nearly 24 millions were starving in the Rusian famine districts, out of their total population of Prepare for Tut Dances and Tut

In the year that followed, writes Garner, not more than 1,-500,000 Rusiane died from famine. This is the estimate of some of the leading American officials who have been feeding the hungry over there.

American relief broke the backbone of the famine. The lives we saved probably run into the millions. A good job, well

One of the greatest handicaps to Russian recovery, says Garner, is that so many horses, cows, sheep and goats were killed for food. American relief, however, put the brakes on attitude, from now on he will all gas. There are furniture and tile

Garner writes: "Russia will not be able to feed its children properly antil the cows and goats are brought up to the normai number. And it will not be fully able to take advantage of its available agricultural land until its draft horses are again equal to their pre-war number or replaced by motor cars and Garner's report struck us as interesting enough to pass along, especially because it conveys the idea that a lot of the reports from Rusisa have been exaggerated. He quotes American officials as estimating that the number of Russians actually starving; this winter does not exceed 5,000,000. Our charity representatives have the situation in hand about as well as could be expected, both in the matter of food and medica supplies. For one thing, the cholera and typhus epidemies are get ting under control.

Garner sums up the general Russian situation by saying that there has been a pronounced change for the better. The people arg as badly cothed as ever. But they seem animated by a more chergetic spirit. "They have more and more the air of having something to do, whereas a year ago they had the appearance of having nothing to do . . . and nothing to look forward to.

"The change for the better may be noticed in the shop win dows,"in the fact the streets are kept cleaner. Railroad service is appreciably better. The street car, the electric lighting and gas systems-in Moscow, at least-are better than a year

The Red Bear, gaunt and weak, but with renewed interest in life and a desire to do, is slowly emerging from his den. Recovery will be slow. But it's started-according to Garner.

SALESMAN SAM

A member of an priental secret organization in the United student, does in Los Angeles. He sentative Wright Patman comes from States wants six camel's teeth, preferably molars. So he writes to Uncle Sam, Salesman-the Department of Commerce's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce , which acts as a gobetween in building up America's foreign trade. The inquiry for camel's teeth is forwarded to the United States consul in Arabid, and doubtless the order will be filled.

The head of an anatomical labratory recently found his business imperiled by the shortage of skeletons and skulls. He got in touch with Uncle Sam, Salesman, and the bureau put him in touch with a European dealer who was glad to make shipmeni.

This bureau in Washington, which "makes connections" for our foreign trade, is becoming one of the most interesting branches of our national government.

It is handling about 3000 inquiries a day, compared with 550 a day late in 1921.

These inquiries reveal the wide scope of our business deal ings with other countries. The American business machine has an amazing number of wheels,

An ambitious glass manufacturer appeals to the bureau for assistance in making glass eyes without German help. A factory, making pop-corn machines, wants to know the best way to introduce its product into South America,

Extremes meet. One company asks advice about developing orders for bair curlers in South America. And from Africa a shrewd trader writes for the address of some American who can manufacture kink eradicators,

The bureaus's work is as useful as it is interesting. It tells a canner why Venezuela will not accept tomato sauce in metal containers. To a hardware manufacturer, it recommends a reliable agent in England. It informs an apiarist about the market for honey in Europe. So on, into hundreds of thousands of cases.

The bureau has become a vast charing house of anormation. in building up new foreign markets for American goods, And its rapid growth indicates that there's a lot of foreign trade waiting for the Americans with pep enough to go after it. That's doubly proved by the sarge number of inquiries from ble the entire corn crop will be plantabroad.

SAINTS AND SMOKERS

Mormon Saints dominate the politics of Utah. Two of the saints are in the American senate and one is a democrat and the other a republican. Utah has an anti-eigarette law which prohibits smoking in pub ic places. Five prominent citizens in eluding Ernest Bamburger, noted republican politician, were placed under arrest for having enjoyed an after dinner smoke in a leading cafe of Salt Lake City. Why not give Utah back to the; Indians?

IS THIS A REASON?

Gasoline production in the United States in 1922 was placed by the geological survey at 6,202,234,613 gallons, or more than 1,000,000,000 greater than the 1921 output. Is this one of the reasons why Mexican crude is on the fee list.
